January 2023 – Happy New Year!

Return to Health "Care"

Discover the Fraum Center's Healthcare Advocacy Program To Get Well and Live Well

Especially in a fast-growing area like Bluffton, Hilton Head, and beyond, access to quality healthcare growing more and more limited, especially when you put the emphasis on the cause of health, rather than treating disease. This equation comes down to three primary areas: access, individual attention, and a plan for preventative and restorative care that can transform the life you want to live.

A worldwide initiative, the Global Health Advocate program organically grew at the Fraum Center for Restorative health, as a regenerative arm of the integrated health program. As Fraum's Global Healthcare Advocate Dr. Heather Hinshelwood, "Dr. H." invests individual attention in an approach to "formulate a proactive, planned, and guided approach to achieving optimum health and vitality for you to live the life you love by living younger, longer."

At the Fraum Center for Restorative Health, it is imperative that each patient is treated as an individual and given the time and access they need. Rather than masking symptoms or overmedicating, each case is treated restoratively, addressing the root cause of their problem.

The team of doctors and medical professionals at Fraum know the current US healthcare system is focused on disease rather than the cause of optimal health. At Fraum, the concentration is on adding health, allowing you to live the quality of life you desire, accumulating vitality rather than being in a constant state of decline. The Global Healthcare Advocacy approach positions the practice's professionals to get back to the origin of the definition of health "care" – what it was meant to be – and allows our patients to take care of their wellbeing and take control of being well.

Live the life you love,
