It Doesn't Have to Be This Way

"Restore" the life you think you've left behind...

Numbness, aching, stabbing, tingling, "feeling like you have a pair of socks on" – unavoidable, inescapable, chronic pain.

Neuropathy, or damage to the nerves, affects around 20 million Americans who increasingly can't open a pickle jar much less play pickle ball. What's worse is that many think this is just a normal unavoidable aspect of aging or irreversible injury and nothing can be done about it.

In almost every case, there is something that can be done about it and that something does not have to include surgery or turning to pharmaceutical remedies.

On Hilton Head since 1991, the Fraum Center for Restorative Health for many years has been implementing a completely drug-free, FDA-cleared laser solution that is ninety percent effective at treating symptoms of neuropathy, helping patients manage pain and inflammation while promoting regeneration of healthy tissue.

Best of all, restorative therapies treat both injury and chronic pain. James W., injured on the job, came to the Fraum Center to avoid surgery and nearly a month later is experiencing total restoration of a knee injury that included a torn meniscus. Whereas Jim B. endured incessant back pain for half a century and is now without back pain only two and a half months later.

Don't wait fifty years or settle for surgery if you don't have to. Restore the life you thought you'd left behind. It doesn't hurt to ask, and if you do, in just a month or two, you might not hurt... at all.

Live the life you love,

Dr. Brad E. Fraum D.C.
